THE EIX X-RAY

What the listing says is not the same as what it means.

The listing establishes a useful property profile, but the price proposition cannot yet be separated from the missing market evidence. EiX therefore focuses the decision on the evidence most likely to change what you should do next.

POSITIVE BUYER SIGNAL

The property proposition is stronger than the bedroom count alone suggests.

Renovation, land, parking, bathrooms, garden and fibre are relevant characteristics. EiX interprets them; it does not claim an independent inspection.

UNRESOLVED BUYER SIGNAL

The asking price has no sufficiently verified market anchor yet.

That is the specific gap that can change the transaction decision — and therefore the gap EiX puts at the centre of this report.

THE BIGGEST QUESTION

Does the market support R 3 500 000 for this particular property?

ASKING

R 3 500 000ASKING / FLOOR M²Not established

Derived from verified asking price and floor area; not a valuation.

COMPARABLE MEDIAN

Not established

No verified comparable set.

EiX could verify the asking price and physical profile, but it has not established enough verified comparable evidence to say whether R 3 500 000 is fair market value. The correct next move is to obtain genuinely comparable Observatory properties with reliable price, size, condition and property-type evidence.

EIX DECISION ENGINE

What would change the decision?

01 · PRICE EVIDENCE

If comparable evidence supports the asking price

Price concern reduces and the physical proposition becomes easier to assess on its own merits.

02 · MARKET PRESSURE

If comparable evidence clusters below the asking price

Negotiation becomes materially more important. EiX does not invent a discount percentage.

03 · INCOME EVIDENCE

If achievable rent produces weak economics

The investment case weakens, even if the property is attractive to an owner-occupier.

FLOOR-AREA / ERF RATIO

Not established

This is a derived floor-area-to-erf relationship. It is not the stated site coverage.

WHY THE RATIO MATTERS

You can compare the physical proposition, not just the bedroom count.

Land, internal space, outdoor space and parking can materially change how similar properties should be compared.

WHY EIX SCORED IT

69/100 — explained in buyer language.

PROPERTY EVIDENCE

Strong

13 evidence records support the current analysis.

PROPERTY FUNDAMENTALS

Positive with limits

The physical proposition is useful, but missing characteristics are never assumed to exist.

FINANCIAL CLARITY

Moderate

Price and illustrative financing are calculable; rental economics and full ownership costs remain incomplete.

MARKET POSITION

Unresolved

The score is deliberately capped when market evidence is absent.

The score is not a valuation. It tells you how much useful decision signal EiX can establish from the available property evidence and financial profile, while protecting the customer from a false market conclusion.

BEFORE YOU MAKE AN OFFER

Five questions EiX says you should answer.

- 01 Is R 3 500 000 supported by recent comparable properties with reliable price, size and property-type evidence?

02

What are comparable properties actually achieving, and how long are they taking to sell?

03

What rent could this property realistically achieve, and what remains after operating costs?

04

Are there ownership costs, restrictions, defects or obligations that are not visible in the supplied listing?

05

Does the condition justify the asking price relative to comparable properties?

RISK & RED FLAGS

What could change the decision?

! Market price is unresolved: verified comparable evidence is insufficient to call the asking price fair or unfair.

! Rental economics are unresolved because verified rental evidence is unavailable.

! Levies or other recurring ownership costs were not established.

DUE-DILIGENCE PRIORITIES

Exactly what should be verified next.

PRIORITY 01

Market position is evidence-limited because no verified comparable asking prices were available for this report.

PRIORITY 02

No buyer affordability constraints were supplied, so affordability cannot be verified.

PRIORITY 03

Comparable-market position cannot be established from the available asking-price evidence.

EIX BOTTOM LINE

The property is interesting. The price is the test.

The physical proposition is reasonably well defined: a house with 3 bedrooms, 3 bathrooms, a 200 m² erf, 2 parking spaces, garden and fibre.

The next decision should not be "Do I like the property?" It should be "Does the market support R 3 500 000 for this particular property?"

Resolve that question before committing to an offer.
